Living Strong Living Well™ is a 12-week small group program designed for adult cancer survivors who have recently become de-conditioned or chronically fatigued from their treatment and/or disease. Our goal is to help patients build muscle mass and muscle strength, increase flexibility and endurance, improve functional ability and decrease fatigue.

Additional goals include reducing the severity of therapy side effects, preventing unwanted weight changes, and improving energy levels and self esteem. A final goal of the program is to assist participants in developing their own physical fitness program so they can continue to practice a healthy lifestyle as a way of life.

Supported by:
Stanford Health Improvement Program,
The YMCA, and individual donations.
Donation information at LSLW.stanford.edu.

PROGRAM GOAL
To empower adult cancer patients to improve functional capacity and to increase their quality of life through an organized program of fitness and strength.

INSTRUCTORS
Certified fitness instructors are trained by Stanford to run the program. They give personal individualized instruction to the participants. The instructors are trained in the elements of cancer, post rehab exercise, and supportive cancer care.

COST
The program consists of one 12-week session that meets 2x/week for 75 minutes. The program is without cost to participants.
